Workshop Schedule

Workshop: Staging

Date: September 30, 2017

Time: 9-12

Overview: With this workshop, we will be going over the basics. Learning the stage: the green room, the wings, stage directions while on stage, proper stage etiquette and appropriate behavior for during a show (no matter where you are). With this workshop; the students would be "touring" the area of the stage, on stage learning stage directions and also in the audience to get the audience perspective.

Workshop: Theatrics

Date: September 30, 2017

Time: 1-4

Overview: With this workshop we would be building off of the previous workshop. We would be reiterating the stage etiquette as well as focusing on stage presence. The students will be working on pronunciation, volume, tone, emotion.

Workshop: Auditions/Monologues

Date: November 25, 2017

Time: 9-12

Overview: This workshop will cover the basics of auditioning. The students will be explained the different ways to go about an audition and the aspects that go into auditioning. We will read monologues and fill out audition sheets. They will even create a "headshot" to take home with their audition sheet and the monologue. We will talk about how to pick your audition piece and how to go through the auditioning process. They will learn about single auditions vs group auditions, prepared monologues vs cold reads, call backs etc.

Jr Theatre Camp

Date: July 9- July 21, 2018

Time: 8:30-12; with a Fri, Sat and Sun Performance

Overview: This theatre camp would be a 2 week camp for the kids put on by a group of "camp counselors". These counselors would have prepped the camp during their camp preparation classes. The counselors will write the play, be broken into roles and committees, assist with the camp and carry out the camp. I will oversee the camp, but the counselors will be assigned roles and committees. There will be a director, an assistant, stage manager(s), set design, light and sound crew. They will be broken down into committees such as stage makeup, costuming, props, registration. These will be committees that will be essential to the success of the camp. The counselors will also be assisting with the camp process; they will be leading games, assisting with snack time, teaching some (if not all) of the workshops and any other tasks that we see fit. The counselors should be taking what they learned throughout the year and apply it to the kids and direct the kids

Teen Theatre Camp

Date: August 6-10, 2018

Time: 8:30-12, Performance on Fri and Sat

Overview: The students will apply everything they've learned to a play.
